U-47700 (Item No. 18596) is an analytical reference material categorized as an opioid. U-47700 has been found during analysis of overdoses, one of which was reversed with naloxone, and several reported fatalities.\textsuperscript{1,2} The primary metabolite of U-47700 is N-desmethyl U-47700 (Item No. 20279). U-47700 is regulated as a Schedule I compound in the United States. This product is intended only for forensic and research applications.

This product is a qualified Reference Material (RM) that has been manufactured and tested to meet ISO17025 and Guide 34 guidelines. These materials are tested using validated analytical methods on qualified instrumentation to ensure traceability of measurements. All traceable RMs may be distinguished by their CofAs and can be downloaded using the batch number located on the product label. For a representative CofA please contact our technical support.

References